ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

I place on record my debt of gratitude to Dr. S. Sudhakar Reddy, my supervisor, for the uninhibited support, unfailing encouragement and helpful guidance all through this research. But for his cooperation, I would not have completed this work within the scheduled time. I thank him most sincerely for the many years of generous help extended to me in this academic endeavour.

I acknowledge my deepest gratitude and regards to His Excellency Rt. Rev. Dr. George Punnakottil, my bishop, for giving the opportunity and freedom to pursue this academic work by exempting me from all other responsibilities for the last two years. For his encouragement all along my academic career, I owe to him more than I can repay.

A fellowship awarded to me by the Indian Council of Social Science Research, New Delhi, offered the freedom and resource to complete this research. I am deeply indebted to Prof. R. Radhakrishna, former member secretary, Indian Council of Social Science Research, New Delhi, for the award of fellowship from ICSSR. He took keen interest in my research and made several useful suggestions on my thesis.

I wish to record my grateful thanks to Prof. Venkataramaiah, the Director, Centre for Economic and Social Studies, Hyderabad. Amidst his many works he devoted his valuable time in reading the entire thesis.

My special gratitude is due to Dr. S. Galab for his valuable help at each and every stage of this research. I can never thank him enough for all what he gave and all that I received. I am deeply indebted to him.

I place on record my gratitude to Dr. K.S. James. I can never forget his support in completing my thesis. I am ever grateful to him.

I am most grateful to Dr. Mrs. Kanakalatha Mukund for going through the manuscript carefully and giving her suggestions. My thanks are due to Prof. N. Krishnaji, the former Director and all the faculty members of the Centre for Economic and Social Studies, Hyderabad. Their suggestions during the pre-submission seminar at the CESS have helped me to improve the quality of the final version of my work. I wish to express my appreciation especially for the assistance provided by Dr. G.K. Mitra and Dr. M. Gopinatha Reddy. I owe a special debt of gratitude to Mr. G. Santhana Babu for the editorial improvements.

I had the privilege of having detailed discussions with Dr. N.J. Harien, Advisor, Planning Commission, New Delhi; Dr. D. Narayana, Dr. K.P. Kannan, and Prof. Mridul Eapen, Centre for Development Studies, Thiruvananthapuram; Prof. Sankaranarayanan, and Dr. Sukumaran Nair, Department of Applied Economics, Cochin University of Science and Technology, Cochin; Dr. A.M. Jose, Assistant Professor, Kerala Agricultural University, Trichur; Dr. B. Kamaiah, University of Hyderabad; Prof. S. Subramanian and Dr. K. Nagaraj, Madras Institute of Development Studies, Madras. I have benefited immensely from my discussions with these distinguished academics.

I acknowledge the help received from the library staff of the Centre for Economic and Social Studies, Hyderabad; Centre for Development Studies, Thiruvananthapuram; Jawaharlal Nehru University, New Delhi; the Indian Council of Social Science Research, New Delhi; and Delhi School of Economics, Delhi.

I cannot forget the best accomodation provided at CHAI Secunderabad by Rev. Fr. James Culas, the Director of CHAI. I owe a deep debt of gratitude to him and his colleagues. I am grateful to Dr. Joseph Muricken for his help in many ways during my stay in Hyderabad. I am also grateful to the Provincial and Montfort brothers for their loving gestures during the stressful years of this research work.

I would like to acknowledge the support from the BDOs and the village Extension Officers of Elemdesam and Azhutha blocks during my field survey. I am grateful to Rev. Fr. Mathew Arackal and Rev. Fr. Augustine Kariappuram and the Staff, Peermede Development Society, for their assistance. My thanks are due to Mr. Babu P. Ramesh and Mrs. Neetha for their continuous interest in my thesis work. Mr. Ravindra Pai was a constant source of encouragement throughout my study and his long experience in the Dept. of Economics and statistics helped me a great deal. My hearty thanks to Mr. Rajeevanpillai, Lecurer, Maharaja's College for the insight in Econometrics. I thank Mr. V.V. Augustine, Mr. Joseph Abraham and Mr. Binu for their assistance in the data collection. Mr. Joseph George provided the computer assistance whenever I needed.

I express my thanks to Mr. M.C. Joseph, Principal and my colleagues in the Department of Economics, Nirmala College, Marvattupuzha for their academic stimulation. I thank particularly my fellow priests at the college campus who have been a source of inspiration and support.

I am ever grateful to my loving parents, brothers and sisters especially Rev. Srs. Assuntha Francis ASMI and Lucina CSJB for their affectionate encouragement.

Last but not the least I owe a lot to the respondents of the survey in Elemdesam and Azhutha blocks who did not tire of answering to my repeated questioning which contributed in a great measure to mould this thesis.

Above all, I thank God, the Almighty for making this possible.

T.M. George
